

Subscription Terms and Conditions

These Terms and Conditions apply to all subscriptions to Pantheon Macroeconomics publications.

Subscription coverage

All Pantheon subscriptions are for a multi-user license within the named team/department at the specific geographic location stated above. There are no additional charges for new users who join an existing team subscription.

Copyright

All our publications are copyright Pantheon Macroeconomics.

Access to the research is available to staff of the subscribing business unit via submission of the participating email addresses to Pantheon Macroeconomics and within the subscriber section of the Pantheon website.

Each participating staff member must have a unique business email login and associated password in order to access the website archives. Login credentials may not be shared. Distribution by mail, fax, email, internet, or other means, to other business units, or other individuals is forbidden.

Any inappropriate use, including but not limited to the reproduction, reselling, or modification of the research is strictly prohibited.

Subscription period

All subscriptions to our periodicals are for one calendar year, unless otherwise agreed by the parties. We deliver service for at least 47 weeks per year.

Subscription Term

Our subscriptions are for the period stated above and are non-cancellable and non-refundable, in whole or in part, from either the date of this Order Confirmation or the subscription start date specified above, whichever comes first.

Subscription Commencement and Renewals

We establish and renew subscriptions to our periodicals only upon explicit verbal or written instructions from customers.

Payment terms

Invoices are due for payment on presentation.

Payment is to be made in the currency stated on the face of the invoice, via electronic transfer to our bank. Bank details are on the face of the invoice. Our fees are non-refundable.

Liability

Neither we nor any third parties providing data used in our publications provide any warranty or guarantee as to the accuracy, timeliness, performance, completeness or suitability of the information and materials found or offered in our publications for any particular purpose. You acknowledge that such information and materials may contain inaccuracies or errors and we expressly exclude liability for any such inaccuracies or errors to the fullest extent permitted by law.

Jurisdiction

This agreement is made under the laws applicable in England and Wales.

Complimentary trials

Pantheon Macroeconomics sells annual subscriptions to its reports. In order to facilitate the sales process, Pantheon Macroeconomics makes a selection of its publications available on a complimentary basis to prospective clients for their review prior to the decision to purchase.

Trials are generally limited to one month to allow prospective clients to ascertain whether the publications meet the needs of the firm and whether funds are available for subscription fees. Trials can be cancelled at any time by any party and there is no obligation to purchase when the trial expires.

For the avoidance of doubt, Pantheon's full subscription terms and conditions above also apply to complimentary trials. By accepting a complimentary trial, you signify your agreement to our subscription terms and conditions as set out above.

Website usage terms and conditions

By continuing to browse and use this website, you are agreeing to comply with and be bound by the following terms and conditions of use which, together with our privacy policy, govern Pantheon Macroeconomics' relationship with you in relation to this website. Cookies

Our website uses a number of cookies. A cookie is a small file that is stored on your computer to allow us to distinguish you from other users of the website. This helps to provide you with the best experience when you browse our website. We are fully committed to compliance with the requirements of the Privacy and Electronic Communications Regulations 2003 (PECR), the Data Protection Act 2018 and UK and EU GDPR.

The cookies we use are either:

- Cookies that allow us to recognise when visitors return to the website
- Cookies that make it easier for you to log in and out of the website
- Cookies that store your website preferences

A cookie does not give us access to your computer or any information about you, other than the data you choose to share with us. None of the information can be accessed by third parties.

We will never sell your data to anyone else for any reason. To read more about how we protect the information we collect about you, please read our Privacy Notice.

Your cookie preferences

You can choose to accept or decline cookies. Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you can usually modify your browser settings to decline cookies if you prefer.

Some cookies are strictly necessary for making our website work well, but users can choose to turn all the others on or off. A user can also manage what cookies are stored on their computer directly by setting the browser to accept or reject certain cookies. However, remember that editing a cookie preference will not remove any existing cookies from the browser, it will only affect the way cookies are used in future.

You can use your web browser to:

- delete all cookies
- block all cookies
- allow all cookies

- block 'third-party' cookies (i.e., cookies set by online services other than the one you are visiting)
- clear all cookies when you close the browser
- open a 'private browsing' / 'incognito' session, which allows you to browse the web without recording your browsing history or storing local data such as cookies (you should however be aware of the limitations of this feature in a privacy context)
- install add-ons and plugins that extend browser functionality.

To find out how to manage cookies on your browser please contact your web browser's technical help files or your IT Department, as the precise process depends on the browser you use, together with any relevant employer-mandated IT policies.

Accessibility

At Pantheon we're committed to ensuring our website is easy to use for as many people as possible. Below are some details on how we aim to achieve this accessibility.

Standards compliance

The World Wide Web Consortium (W3C)'s Web Accessibility Initiative (WAI) publishes a set of guidelines for making web content more accessible to persons with disabilities known as the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG). According to how accessible a website is, the WCAG gives a rating of A, AA, or AAA, where A is the least accessible and AAA is the most accessible. Our aim is for all of our pages to conform to AA standard. We also aim to meet as many requirements of the AAA standard as possible. If you believe we could make any changes to make the website more accessible, then please contact us by email at privacy@pantheonmacro.com .

Cross browser testing

We recognise that not all visitors to our website use the same web browser, operating system and hardware, so our website has been tested across a range of different browsers and on both Mac and PC computers. This testing ensures that as many people as possible experience the website as intended. If you experience any issues, please contact the technical help files on your browser of choice, or your company's IT Department.

Access keys

Access keys are a web browser feature enabling the user to navigate a website using the keyboard, without the need to use a mouse. Our access keys are listed below.

Please consult the technical help files for your browser of choice to see how to make use of this functionality. Please note that your browser and your company's IT Department will need to support this feature on your device for it to be operational.

Compliance statement

We are committed to ensuring the security and protection of the personal information that we process, and to provide a complaint and consistent approach to Data Protection. We have always had an effective data protection program which complies with applicable law and principles however, we recognize our ongoing obligations to ensure compliance with the UK GDPR legislation and the UK Data Protection Act 2018.

We are dedicated to safeguarding the personal information under our remit and developing a data protection strategy which is effective, fit for purpose and demonstrates an understanding and appreciation of data protection roles, policies, processes, procedures, standards, guidelines, controls and measures to ensure maximum and ongoing compliance by all employees of Pantheon Macroeconomics Ltd.
